Zoom/COVID-19 Fatigue? Set Healthy Boundaries

The brain gets fatigued from overexertion in processing images which, in turn, lends itself to physical fatigue. With remote work, Zoom marathons seem less sustainable:

- Block off times before & after meetings to catch your breath
- Limit nonurgent calls to one or two/week
- Have phone calls for short/informal conversations
- Make 'Zoom days' to leverage other days to get some work done
- Invent a holiday for 'recharge' (employers)

APPLY BY NOVEMBER 23, 2020!

MULTI-LINE CLAIMS EXAMINER

Work for a nonprofit local governmental association
Successful candidate will have:

- five years of related experience
- emphasis in employment & law enforcement liability claims preferred
- possible remote work environment w/occasional travel
- position may begin as a contract assignment
- excellent benefits package and work environment
- offices in Santa Fe and Albuquerque

NACo Releases Election Analysis: Insights for Counties from November's General Elections

U.S. ELECTIONS ANALYSIS 2020
INSIGHTS FOR COUNTIES FROM THE 2020 ELECTIONS

The November 3 general election altered the political landscape in Washington, with a likely change in the White House. Democrats maintained the majority in the U.S. House of Representatives, while control of the U.S. Senate will be decided in a pair of runoff elections in Georgia on January 5. The new administration and the 117th Congress includes over 80 former county officials. The report will be updated as results are finalized. Read it here
